

North East Westchester Special Recreation
Infection Control Training

The health, safety and well being of our participants and our staff are extremely important and remain our top priority. There are precautionary measures everyone can complete to help keep everyone safe. Everyone needs to take responsibility to protect themselves and others.

New York Office for People with Developmental Disabilities requires all employees learn ways we can prevent the spread of illnesses in order to protect the individuals we serves, our coworkers and ourselves.

These two videos will help illustrate how illnesses can be spread and how we can prevent this from happening.
